

Later

by Stephen King

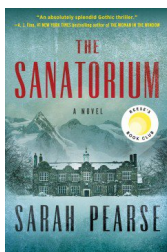

Jamie Conklin, a boy born with an unnatural ability to see and learn things no one else can, is enlisted to help an NYPD detective pursue a killer who has threatened to strike from beyond the grave. With echoes of King's classic novel It, this book is a powerful, haunting, unforgettable exploration of what it takes to stand up to evil in all the faces it wears.

People Like Her

by Ellery Lloyd

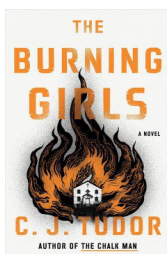

To her adoring fans, Emmy Jackson, aka @the_mamabare, is the honest "Instamum" who always tells it like it is. But Emmy's morally questionable relationship with the truth exposes deep psychological cracks in her marriage at the same time her family is targeted by a violently obsessed fan.

The Sanatorium

by Sarah Pearce

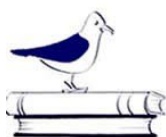

Detective Elin Warner is on a career break, to recover from a traumatizing case. She joins her brother and his fiancé at Le Sommet -- once a rumor-troubled sanatorium treating tuberculosis patients, recently renovated into a lavish hotel. Then the fiancé goes missing, and Elin realizes that this isn't the first vanishing at the old sanatorium.

The Burning Girls

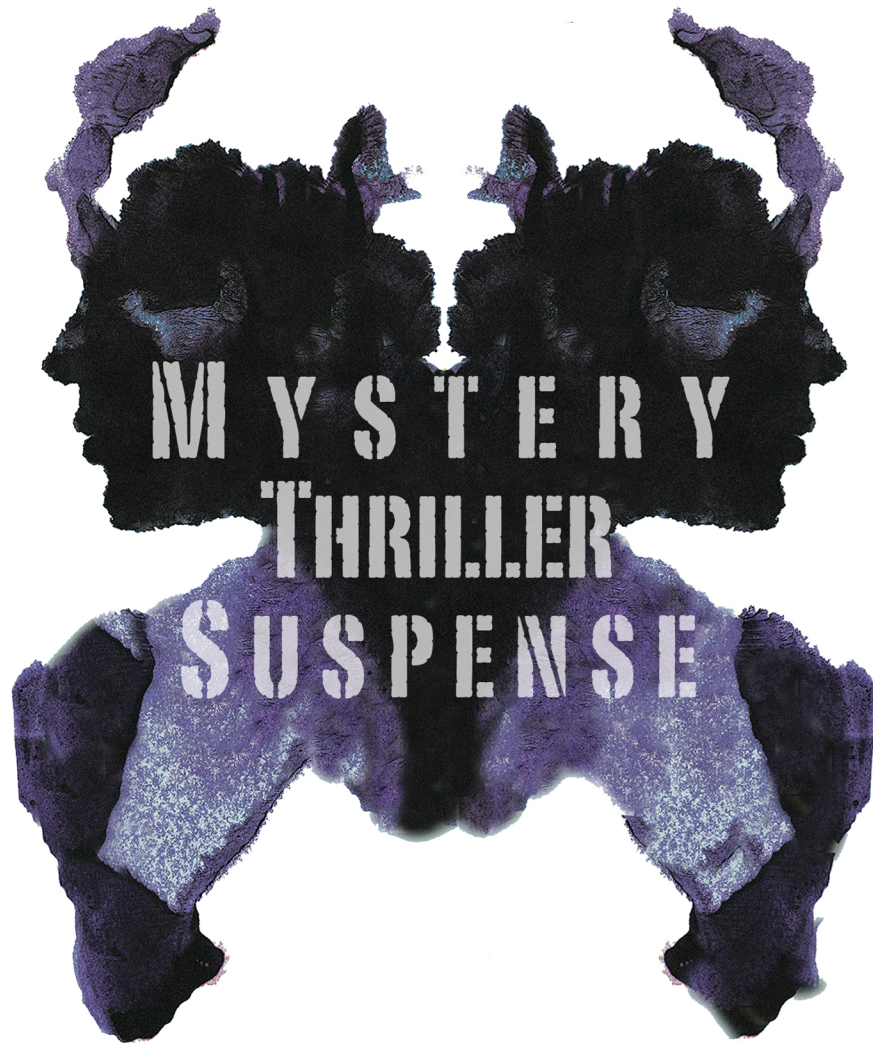

by C. J. Tudor

Assigned to a remote English countryside parish after a suspicious suicide, an unconventional vicar and single father investigates the village's tragic history and the recent disappearances of two teens. By the award-winning author of The Chalk Man.

Who is Maud Dixon?

by Alexandra Andrews

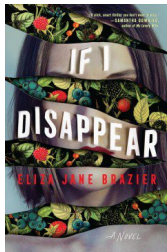

Working for a mysterious novelist known as Maud Dixon, Florence Darrow accompanies her to Morocco where her new novel is set. There, Florence's life at last feels interesting enough to inspire a novel of her own. But when she wakes up in the hospital after a terrible car accident, with no memory of the previous night and no sign of Maud, Florence decides to become Maud, claiming the life she's always wanted.

The Push

by Ashley Audrain

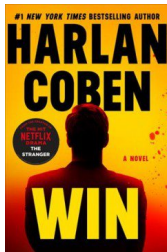

Blythe Connor has a painful past, and is determined to be the devoted, comforting mother she never had. But in the thick of the early days of motherhood, Blythe gradually realizes that something is very wrong with her daughter, a fear that is complicated by her husband's dismissive views and the birth of a healthy son.

If I Disappear

by Eliza Jane Brazier

Sera loves true crime podcasts. They make her feel empowered in a world where women just like her disappear daily. She's sure they are preparing her for something. So when Rachel, her favorite podcast host, goes missing, Sera knows it's time to act. But the more Sera digs into this unfamiliar world, the more off things start to feel.

Win

by Harlan Coben

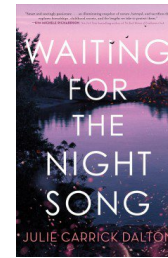

A high-suspense follow-up to the best-selling The Boy from the Woods is presented from the viewpoint of Myron Bolitar's fan-favorite sidekick, Windsor Horne Lockwood III. Over twenty years ago, the heiress Patricia Lockwood was abducted, then locked inside an isolated cabin for months. Patricia escaped, but so did her captors, and the items stolen from her family were never recovered. Until now.

Finlay Donovan is Killing It

by Elle Cosimano

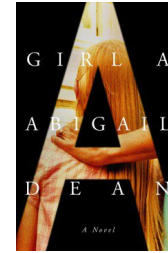

The first in a witty, fast-paced mystery series. When struggling suspense novelist and single mom Finlay Donovan is mistaken for a contract killer, she inadvertently accepts the offer to dispose of a problem husband in order to make ends meet, discovering that crime in real life is a lot harder than fiction.

Waiting for the Night Song

by Julie Carrick Dalton

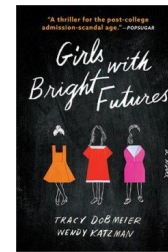

An urgent message from her long-estranged best friend Daniela brings Cadie back to her childhood home. There, they are forced to face a dark secret that ended both their idyllic childhood bond and the magical summer that takes up more space in Cadie's memory than all her other years combined.

Girl A

by Abigail Dean

For readers of Room and Dear Edward. Bequeathed the house from where she escaped her brutally abusive parents, eldest child Lex Gracie navigates complicated family loyalties in her efforts to renovate the property into a safe place for her traumatized siblings.

Girls with Bright Futures

by Tracy Dobmeier

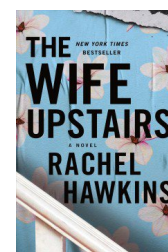

Locked in competition for a single admittance into Stanford, the mothers of three prep-school students confront their worst nightmares and doubts about each other's true characters when their daughter applicants are violently targeted. This book combines the college admissions scandal with the edge of Big Little Lies, the snark of Class Mom, and the schadenfreude of watching the elite implode.

The Survivors

by Jane Harper

Kieran Elliott's life changed forever on the day a reckless mistake led to devastating consequences. The haunting guilt resurfaces during a visit with his young family to the coastal community he once called home. Kieran's parents are struggling, and between them all is his absent brother, Finn. When a body is discovered on the beach, long-held secrets threaten to emerge.

The Wife Upstairs

by Rachel Hawkins

Southern charm is paired with atmospheric domestic suspense in this story perfect for fans of B.A. Paris and Megan Miranda. Supplementing her modest income by stealing small valuables from her gated-community clients, a broke dog-walker endeavors to win the heart of a wealthy bachelor before learning his late wife's own rags-to-riches story.
