The House of Eve*
by Sadeqa Johnson
So heartbreaking but compelling. Set in the 1950s, this is a story of love, passion, desperation, unfair practices, hopes and dreams, of being treated differently because of the color of your skin and the place of your birth. Wonderful, memorable characters and the audio is fantastic!

Someone Else's Love Story
by Joshilyn Jackson
I loved this book! It was a little confusing in the beginning but then it all falls into place. This book has a lot of love stories - mother/child, friend/friend, husband/wife, father/child and multiples of each. I laughed out loud and I cried. I cheered and I booed. The audio (read by the author) was excellent!

Anxious People*
by Fredrik Backman
This is about a bank robber, a love story, a father/son police duo, a grieving widow, a young couple expecting their first baby, a broken home... and much more. The links in this chain are wonderfully heartwarming with both heartbreaking moments and laugh-out-loud moments. I wonder if Swedish policemen are really that polite. Great audio.

The Boys: A Memoir of Hollywood and Family*
by Ron and Clint Howard
This is an enjoyable memoir by the Howard boys. It is mostly about their growing up years, not much of their lives as adults. For those who grew up in the 60's and 70's, there are some great "I remember that show!" moments. A fun read. Ron and Clint narrate the audio, which I highly recommend!
