

Ellen's PICKS

May 2026

Reads like a memoir. A 95 year old woman relates the story of when she relocates as a young beautiful woman to NYC and discovers an entire new world.

A heart-wrenching novel about friendship, mothers and daughters, and the experiences and difficulties of growing up Black in the 1950 and 1960's South.

Unexpectedly delightful. I highly recommend this one. Lots of twists and you will fall in love with cranky 81 year old Elsie and her 7 year old friend Persephone.
