In this presentation, professional photographer Joseph Squillante will guide you on a visual voyage, traveling the Hudson River's length from its source in the Adirondack Mountains to its mouth at New York Harbor. Along the way, we'll explore the river's scenic beauty, evoking the spirit of the Hudson River School, witness the traditions of the last commercial shad fishermen, observe a wildlife biologist caring for bald eagles, and reflect on the environmental challenges and the champions working to protect this vital waterway.
